

Jeffrey Roode

Jeff is a partner at the Toronto office of Miller Thomson LLP where he practices corporate/commercial and information technology law at with a focus on the payments and Fintech industries. He has acted for payment networks, banks, merchants, processors, Fintechs, service providers and others in a wide variety of commercial transactions. Jeff also provides regulatory advice and assists with customer-facing issues. Prior to joining Miller Thomson, Jeff spent ten years as in-house counsel at one of Canada's largest banks where he was lead counsel to the bank's credit card business.