

Barry Sookman

Senior partner in the Technology Law Group. Former leader of the firm's Intellectual Property group. One of Canada's foremost authorities in information technology, Internet, copyright, privacy, and anti-spam (CASL) law. Acts in connection with complex IT/IP transactions, including outsourcings and in IT/IP litigation. Has argued numerous precedent-setting cases at all levels of courts, including the Supreme Court of Canada. An adjunct professor of IP law at Osgoode. Personal blog @ www.barrysookman.com

Professional Memberships

Copyright Committee PTIC.

Career

Ontario Bar, 1982.

Publications

Author of numerous books, including the leading six-volume treatise 'Computer, Internet and Electronic Commerce.'